

Our Clinically Proven Men's Health Ingredient Helps Guys Look Great, Feel Great as They Age

For men, aging well is often defined as maintaining vigor and vitality as well as appearance. Why do some guys seem to age effortlessly? How can they retain their energy and drive through each decade? Part of their secret may be genetics. But not everyone is born with good genes. Now RiaGev-M gives men a simple way to manage their body's response to the everyday stressors that can accelerate aging while also improving their quality of life.

RiaGev-M represents a breakthrough improvement in ingredient technology for men's health formulas. It is a patented drug-free ingredient formulation that is clinically proven* to lower cortisol levels naturally in shorter amounts of time than other ingredients, and without side effects. This makes it more effective at helping men maintain healthy testosterone levels and improve libido. Guys feel the difference, which supports brand loyalty.

A specialized formulation of Bioenergy Ribose and Nicotinamide, RiaGev-M significantly reduces cortisol levels naturally. Cortisol reduction is essential in improving men's overall health.

RiaGev-M is versatile enough to be used in a stand-alone men's health product or included in your existing formulations.

Benefits of noticeably lower cortisol levels:

- Enhanced testosterone levels
- Enhanced libido
- Improved stress response
- Enhanced metabolism
- Less sleepiness and fatigue
- More energy and overall improvement with the effects of heavy weightlifting

Your Men's Health Formula Needs RiaGev-M

While most men may assume lower testosterone and waning vigor are first signs of aging, the reality is that a series of gradual hormonal changes has likely already been well underway for years. It may come as a surprise that our brain, muscle, and fat cells all have hormone receptors, thus, these cumulative changes occur on a cellular level, accelerating aging in all tissues.

Because RiaGev-M is clinically proven* to naturally reduce cortisol levels, a hormone responsible for the body's stress response, it works to alleviate a number of cortisol-dependent symptoms such as low libido, low testosterone and weight gain. It works in a shorter amount of time than other cortisol-lowering ingredients, and is more bioavailable, making your men's health products more appealing as they experience common signs of aging.
